ABOUT TELLING THE TRUTH.

A correspondent of the Recorder who pretends to know something about exports and manufactures, charges that the Gazette does not tell the truth in discussing the question of tariff. Let us see who tells the truth, and then the readers can understand how much the Recorder's correspondent knows about the tariff, exports and manufactures. He says: "We have free cotton and yet our exports have hardly increased during the past twelve years." The utter foolishness of this statement is shown by reference to the official reports where it will be seen that in 1876, twelve years ago, our exports of manufactured cotton amounted to $7,729,978. In 1887 the same export amounted to $14,929,942. It is apparent, therefore, that the exports of manufactured cotton have very nearly doubled during the time in which the Gazette says "it has hardly increased." Further examination will show that instead of exporting, as the Gazette says, five per cent. of our manufactured cotton, we export 14, or over 18 per cent. And the Gazette says we import cotton goods to the amount of twenty-one million dollars, but it does not mention the fact that out of the twenty-one millions twenty-six millions are fancy line cottons, such as laces, curtains, trimmings, etc., together with knitted goods, ready-made clothing and etc. In other words we export cotton cloth in value $13,000,000, leaving a balance of exports in our favor of $10,000,000 on clothing.

INTERESTING YOUNG MEN.

For some time before the war Mr. Harrison was superintendent of the Sunday school, and after his return from the army was for a number of years, up to his election as United States senator, the teacher of the Congressional bible class for men. So successful was he in this work that he drew to the class a large number of young men active in business and professional life. Among the officers and members of churches of different denominations in Indianapolis not a few who speak with enthusiasm of the instruction and the inspiration to a true life they received while members of that class. One of its former members said the other day: "General Harrison always had a clear conception of the truth in his head and he had that truth also on his heart."

BLAINE AT DETROIT.

The Maine Statesman Opens His Western Campaign.
VETOES AND THE SURPLUS DISCUSSED.
President Cleveland's Policy of Checking Pension Legislation Denounced—A Criticism on Loaning Public Money to Private Banks.

BLAINE TAKES ON TWO TOPICS.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 4.—Six thousand people crowded the Detroit rink last night to hear Mr. Blaine, and more than that number were turned away from the door. From the moment the Maine statesman appeared at the entrance until he mounted the platform the great audience maintained a continuous cheer, and when he reached the platform he was received with a great shout of welcome. General Algeo acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced Mr. Blaine, who began at once a discussion of the veto question. He said, in substance, in making a veto a President used the power of thirteen Senators and fifty-seven Representatives besides his own executive power. Washington used his veto only twice, in all the years from the first Congress to the year 1881, the veto had only been used seventy-five times. Of these vetoes most were by Democratic Presidents, showing that despite their principles the Democrats were the quickest to use the veto power, and in the last three years President Cleveland had used the veto twenty times, and of these vetoes 205 were vetoes of bills to give pensions to American soldiers. There was not a claim in any one of these cases that the person in question was not a soldier. The cases, it is true, were outside the general law, but they were not outside the scope of merit. Each of these pensions had been passed by a Republican Senate and a Democratic House, only to be vetoed by a Democratic President.

During his remarks on this subject Mr. Blaine referred to Andrew Jackson as the great leader of the present Democratic party as it has been organized for the last sixty years. Upon the mention of Jackson's name a number of vigorous demonstrations in a corner of the hall set up a yell of applause, to which Mr. Blaine replied: "General Jackson was a man worthy of your cheer, because he succeeded in his career with him on certain great questions, they remember that the first efforts of the disunionists were strangled in the cradle by that great old hero."

This quick retort was received by the great audience with a burst of hearty cheer. At the mention of Cleveland's name an element in the gallery, as if by concerted arrangement, broke out with applause for Cleveland, which was immediately and unreservedly drowned by a deluge of hisses from the body of the audience. Mr. Blaine continued: "I do not intend, Mr. Chairman, to dwell on the subject of pensions, and I have introduced this matter that it might be placed before you another subject, viz., the great surplus in the United States Treasury, a part of which I think might have gone to the poor soldier without endangering the stability of the Government. (Applause and laughter.) But that surplus which the President has been accumulating with great skill and industry for more than a year and a half, refusing to apply it to the reduction of the public debt, that surplus which he holds such great danger to the Republic, has at length found its usual fate. The President and his Secretary of the Treasury have ameliorated the danger by giving more than $20,000,000 of it as a loan without interest to some National banks scattered all over the country; and this day and hour your money and mine, and the money of the citizens of the United States, to the amount of more than $20,000,000, is loaned without a cent of interest to certain National banks in the country, and I cannot get much of it for use from these bankers. (Laughter.) There is $3,000,000 granted away by the President and the Secretary of the Treasury in a single year. The Secretary of the Treasury is a single year, if the Government would favor us as it does these National banks, I read this morning that the chairman of the Democratic National committee, Mr. Bruce, a very bright and able man, had $1,000,000 of the surplus in his bank. (Applause and laughter.) Well, that is worth $200,000 a year. (Laughter.) I would tempt a man to be chairman of the National Democratic Committee if I think $3,000,000 a year is worth $200,000 a year. (Laughter.) Let a soldier who had offered his body to the cannon and shot and the enemy of his country. (Cheers.)

The course to vote a four dollar pension bill for a widow, and the lack of courage to vote a $2 million dollar harbor bill, is a fitting illustration of the character of Mr. Cleveland.

The democrats are having about as much trouble with their chairman of the national committee as they have with their candidate for president and the Mills bill. The New York World, an administration organ, says: Mr. Bruce, chairman of the democratic national committee, is a charming gentleman, but he talks too much for a political leader. He does not seem to understand that he is an object of interest to newspaper reporters. Jack now. He has been confiding in another Cincinnati Engineer correspondent, telling him in effect that he is a free trader. Mr. Bruce should know that the sneaking enemies of the democratic party are setting traps for him.

Bruce tells the truth when he says he is a free trader, and he uses speech for the democratic party, and his honesty and boldness make some democrats squirm.

Colonel Clark E. Carr, of Illinois, delivered a splendid address in New York this evening in which he said of Harrison: "We have everything to encourage us. We have splendid candidates, that quiet citizen who has appalled his enemies and surprised his friends by the clearness of his judgment when the fierce light shines on candidates was turned upon him, who conducted himself modestly, like a genial American citizen, and who in his speeches has risen above the domain of statesmanship almost into that of a serene philosophy as pure and clear as his own life and as invincible as the battalions he led in war."

The republican tariff bill has been reported and published, and it reduces the revenue about $75,000,000, made up approximately as follows: Sugar, $27,750,000; free list, $6,500,000; tobacco (internal revenue), $24,500,000; alcohol in the arts, $7,000,000; other reductions in customs, $8,800,000. The democrats will look vigorously against the reduction of the sugar duty. They want that sticky industry fostered in a democratic state, and so will oppose the sugar reduction.

Senator Sherman Speaks Briefly on the New Tariff Bill—A Civil-Service Reform Discussion—A Quiet Day in the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The nature of the Senate proceedings were reported of the Republican tariff bill and the discussion on the Senate floor.

Senator Hoar (Mass.) introduced a bill supplementary to the act approved July 3, 1887, fixing a day for the meeting of the electors of President and Vice-President.

[It provides that the certificates and lists of votes for President and Vice-President shall be forwarded to the Senate after the second Monday in January on which the electors shall give their votes, and in the event of a case not arriving a messenger shall be sent to the district judge in whose custody one certificate of the votes from that State has been lodged, and such certificate shall be transmitted to the seat of Government.]

Senator Allison (Ia.) reported a substitute for the Mills Tariff bill, which was placed on the calendar and ordered to be printed. He announced that the majority and minority reports to accompany the bill would be filed today or to-morrow and gave notice that he would call up the bill for consideration on Monday next.

Senator Sherman (O.) stating that he was compelled to leave the city at once, obtained permission to speak on the measure. He said that in his judgment the Senate substitute was a substantial compromise, and that the provisions for the collection of internal revenue and customs duties, it contained a possible, unquestionable reduction of revenues to the extent of $20,000,000.

Senator Sherman (O.) stated that he was not a single item in the Senate bill which discriminated between sections of the country. There was a slight increase of the duty on wool, but he hoped against hope that the increase would be made larger by the Senate. He believed that the Senate bill was the whole of the best revenue bill ever introduced in Congress.

Consideration of Mr. Hale's (Me.) resolution calling on the Secretary of War for an explanation of the Secret circular respecting the discharge of soldiers in the United States arsenal was resumed. Senator Cockrell (Mo.) read the Jay Hubbell circular of 1883 calling on Government employees to contribute to the Republican campaign fund; and Mr. Porter (Ind.) introduced a resolution to Dorsey, stating that he had contributed $30,000. He said he read those letters to show the depths of degradation to which the civil service of the Government had been brought under Republican administration in 1883-84. It could never sink into lower depths than it sank then.

Senator Hale said that if Mr. Cleveland was the sincere reformer which he was believed to be, he would not be punished for violating every single principle which he had advanced as the guide and rule of his Administration. Senator Chandler criticized the recent employment of a number of additional men at the Treasury navy yard as a political movement on the part of Secretary Whitney. This was against the law except in the case of emergency, and he would be discharged after election. Senator Hawley said that if it was true that Mr. Cleveland had sent $10,000 to a political committee, the conclusion was inevitable that he had committed a crime punishable by fine or by imprisonment, or both. The matter went over until to-day.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Among the bills passed yesterday were Senate bill for the establishment of the Lincoln land district of New Mexico, and Senate bill granting the right of way to the Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company through the public lands in Florida, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee, and through the naval and military reservations near Pensacola. The conference report on the bill to create the United States Senator Talpoco, was agreed to.

Mr. Burns (Mo.) presented the conference report on the Deficiency Appropriation bill. He referred to the provision for an investigation on the work on the Washington aqueduct, and declared that it was beyond question that a wrong, almost unparalleled in public works, had been perpetrated in the work upon the aqueduct. He hoped that hereafter the Government would not permit any public work to be executed by the contractor.

The proposition to extend the laws over the public land survey provided for by the act of March 3, 1879, was agreed to.

Mr. Dunn (Ark.) said that the proposition was an expedient to defeat the Oklahoma bill and served notice that it would not be agreed to by the House without the presence of a quorum.

Pending final action on the report the House adjourned.

TO PURCHASE CANADA.
A Resolution Looking to That End Introduced in the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The Sun's Washington correspondent telegraphs that in an interview last night Senator Morgan confirmed the rumor that a resolution had been introduced in the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations looking to the purchase of Canada by the United States.

The committee has taken no action on the proposition and does not seem to look upon it with favor. Senator Blair was the author of the resolution. It proposes to invite Canada to become a State in the Union, the United States to assume the Canadian indebtedness of $100,000,000.

THE ASTROLOGER AND Wise Men of olden times demonstrated, and later human experience has verified their demonstrations, that the good or ill fortune of every person is confined to one of 12 different degrees, and is strictly governed by the Star that ruled the Faces during the month in which the person was born, as explained below. From this mysterious realm of power has been calculated this amazing Fortune Teller. Try its predictions.

EXPLANATION.—The inner Circle will predict your Fortune in Business Affairs. The next Circle, in Affairs of Love. The next Circle, your General Future. The outer Circle, in Domestic Affairs.

A Word to Republicans.

The importance of the results of the present political campaign can not be overestimated by those who desire the success of the Republican party. The Democrats, besides the "Solid South," are, in the North intrinsched behind a massiveness of public patronage. It will take steady, earnest, and untired work to dislodge them. Nothing will so surely bring about that steady, earnest, and untired work as the circulation of sound political literature, and OF THIS CLASS NO OTHER IS AS EFFICIENT AS THE DAILY AND WEEKLY NEWSPAPER. Speeches and documents are read by the few, and when read are laid aside; the newspaper is the friends friend, the citizen's daily companion. Its influence is constantly constant. The Republicans can not afford their party better than by circulating

✻The Daily Inter Ocean✻

It is a live Republican newspaper, and has been faithful among the faithless in Chicago. No man has ever questioned its goodness or the platform, because the principles of the platform have been advocated by THE INTER OCEAN many years. PROTECTION TO AMERICAN INDUSTRIES and AMERICAN MARKETS for AMERICAN PRODUCERS have been its battle cries from the beginning. It did not take it six weeks to ascertain whether it could stand on the platform or not.

Republicans have done much to aid in the inculcation of false political doctrines by patronizing papers that advocate them. Why should they do so when they can avoid it by subscribing for THE INTER OCEAN, which is acknowledged to be

The Best and Most Reliable Newspaper

Published in Chicago? In enterprise, news, editorial ability, and everything that goes to make a COMPLETE NEWSPAPER it is unexcelled by any of its contemporaries.

Every Republican ought to subscribe for it.

Every workingman ought to subscribe for it.

Is it not the moral classes of nation's people who believe in protecting

The homes of America.
